WOODGRAIN PRINTS

Panel Processing's Woodgrain Prints are a different type of panel. It's not digitally printed, it's not veneer and it's not laminate. The realistic look of Panel's Woodgrain Prints is achieved utilizing a gravure printing method with a one to three color process that goes directly onto the substrate. This direct transfer print application offers a consistent transfer of ink and a high quality image with repeatable color and consistency. Multiple engraved cylinders of different wood species give this collection of Woodgrain Prints diversity and character for multiple projects. Although custom colors are available, the standard colors listed below are complementary to many industry laminates. Start your next project with Panel Processing's Woodgrain Prints...the beginning of something stunning.
